SUNDAY SNOW STORM

Rains and Floods in Tennessee.

PRINCE JEROME NAPOLEON DYING

The Horrible Fate of a Lion Tamer.

Parisian Treatment of the Empress Frederick.

The Tennessee Floods.

KNOXVILLE, March 9.—Very heavy rains prevailed throughout this section yesterday and last night, and all the streams are out of their banks. A seven-year-old girl was drowned this morning by falling into the raging creek. A colored man named Hunter was drowned yesterday.

CHATTANOOGA, March 9.—The Tennessee river has reached the danger line, rising three inches an hour. Experienced river men predict that it will overflow much of the city in low-lying places, cut off several railroads and suspend the operations of several manufacturing plants. The rainfall for thirty-six hours is three and a quarter inches, and extends up the river and in east Tennessee generally. The indications for more showers are very promising.

NASHVILLE, March 9.—The phenomenal rise in the river continues this morning, and the gauge reads 46½ feet. Much damage has been done, and from 1,500 to 2,000 people were driven from their homes. Goods in warehouses and cellars suffered much damage. The river is a vast angry torrent spreading over the low lands, and nearly all the lumber yards are overflowed. At police headquarters many inquiries for shelter have been made.

Reports from all points on the river show that it is rising every where, and the fullness of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers will prevent the Cumberland from running down rapidly, as it otherwise would.

The river continues to rise a quarter of an inch an hour, but it is expected that it will begin to recede this morning, as reports received from up the river points show the high waters are slowly falling.

The Tempest in Paris.

PARIS, March 9.—Diplomats and politicians are still discussing the recent visit of the Empress Frederick to Paris. Count von Munster, the German Ambassador, attributes the moral check sustained by Germany to the influence of Baron de Moprenheim, the Russian Ambassador in Paris, whom the Count irreverently designates as "Old Monkey." Count von Munster's supposition is believed to be true. In addition the German Ambassador officials continue to criticize President Carnot's action in not calling upon the Empress Frederick when she was in Paris, and it is stated that hereafter all arrangements will be made beforehand should any other member of the imperial family of Germany visit the French capital.

Sunday Snow Storm.

CHICAGO, March 9.—Dispatches from numerous points throughout Minnesota, Northern Iowa, Central Illinois, Southern Wisconsin and Eastern Nebraska report the severest snowstorm of the winter was raging all day Sunday. Trains are running behind time and in many places none are running. Travel on wagon roads at numerous points is wholly suspended, and in the cities the street car service is more or less delayed. Severe storms are reported in various parts of Texas. Snow and sleet have fallen and the fruit trees fared badly.

A Prince Dying.

ROME, March 9.—The physicians in attendance upon Prince Jerome Napoleon, announced that both of the Prince's lungs are in a congested state and they informed the family that the fatal issue of his illness was only a question of a few hours. The Prince refused repeatedly to receive consolation and administration of sacrament from the priests who have been admitted to his room.

Will Contest Closed.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The Fayerweather will contest was brought to a sudden close. The case has been settled and the objections withdrawn. Surrogate Ransom in admitting the will to probate remarked that the allegations of undue influence had not been sustained.

A Lion Tamer Mangled.

PARIS, March 9.—A horrible scene by which a well-known lion tamer will lose his life was witnessed at the hippodrome to-day. The spectacle of "Nero" was being prepared, one of the features being an attack by lions upon wooden figures arranged in the area to represent human beings. Seats, the lion tamer, had just concluded his day's drilling, or training of six lions for this performance, and was driving them back in their cages, when one of them suddenly refused to enter the cage. Seats managed to cage the remaining five of lions, and then turned his attention to the rebellious animal. Seats armed himself with a lance and tried to dislodge the refractory lion, but in so doing he tripped and lost his hold of the lance. Before the lion tamer could regain possession of the lance the angry lion sprang upon him, buried him to the floor and bit and rent him in a most horrible manner. Seats' cries for help soon brought another trainer to the scene. The latter caught up the lance and gallantly attacked the lion, inflicting a severe wound with the weapon. Cowed by the wound received the lion left poor Seats and slunk into its cage. Medical assistance was promptly sent for and everything possible was done to save the lion tamer's life, but latest reports are that he is dying.

A Delicate Question.

ROME, March 9.—The Monitor du Rome in an article on the school question in the United States, says it is the principal Catholic question in America, and although burningly delicate it does not believe it will lead to a conflict between the Catholics and the civil authorities. Monitor adds, it has confidence in the wisdom of the Catholics, and in the spirit of justice and toleration of the American civil powers, and says Kulturkampf is impossible in the United States.

Citrus Fair.

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—The Citrus Fair opens to-morrow night, and everything is rapidly being put in place. Twenty-five Santa Barbara delegates arrived yesterday. General and Mrs. Chipman of Red Bluff arrived Saturday. This morning a Marysville party and members of the Executive Committee of the Marysville Fair arrived.

Oakland Election.

OAKLAND, March 9.—The contest at the polls to-day is one of the most determined which has been made in this city for many years. The Local Option issue complicates the situation and renders the outcome uncertain. The Local Option Alliance has issued an address to voters and its members are taking an active part at the polls. The main fight is on the Mayor and members of the City Council.

GOOD NEWS.

Nevada to Have Another Railroad To Run From Bodie to Pioche.

The San Francisco Chronicle of yesterday contains a bit of railroad news that the people of this State will read with interest.

All kinds of guesses have been made as to whom the purchase of Captain Smith's little line, known as the California and Nevada, was to be credited. It was stated at the time of the sale, now several weeks ago, that the purchasers were eastern capitalists, and that it was the intention of the buyers to change the gauge from narrow to standard. These are facts. The road has been bought by J. A. Williamson of the Atlantic and Pacific, the Grant Brothers, who built a large portion of the Santa Fe, and others resident in the East.

When the Santa Fe acquired the Colorado Midland last fall the question was asked why the company had purchased a line which runs to no particular place. The explanation of this deal is now very simple. Surveys have been made from Bodie across Nevada to Pioche, which is due east of San Francisco, and there to Grand Junction on the Colorado Midland, and the place where that line strikes the Rio Grande Western. A preliminary survey has also been run from the Moraga valley out across the Sierra to Bodie.

The Chronicle says the road will be built beyond a doubt.

BURNING BRUNER.

Bishop Paddock Died To-day.

THE PRESIDENT HUNTING DUCKS

Secretaries Foster and Proctor Also Absent.

Chief of the Texas Train Robbers Captured.

The Bruner Investigation.

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—The Assembly committee appointed to investigate the charges against Bruner met. Andrew Lawrence of the Examiner, replying to a question, said he was the Sacramento correspondent of the paper at the time of the introduction of the police bill. Bledsoe asked if the Examiner was favorable or unfavorable to it. Lawrence replied he thought the Examiner was favorable to an increase of the police force.

Timothy O'Meara, a car driver, was sworn as a witness and was asked if he had been offered a position on the police force. "Yes," he said, "I was offered a position by Louis Jones, the price to be paid being $400. Comiskey was present. I said I thought I could get the place without paying $400. Comiskey said he did not think it possible. Jones told me he had a friend in the Legislature who had the appointments. Jones remarked that Comiskey would make a good officer, he was such a big, strapping fellow. I said he was not a citizen, and he replied 'that don't make a bit of difference, I'll fix it.' Bruner's name was not mentioned. I told him that I would consider it. He said Crimmins was charging $500 for them."

Could then examined O'Meara and the witness went into the conversation he had had with Jones, more in detail. It was Jones who asked him if he had $400.

Richard Bellau was next called. He said his occupation had been that of clerk. He had been in Sacramento for two months attending to his own business. "I know Daniel Jones and his brother," he said, "I sent both the letter and the telegram to Dan Jones, concerning positions on the police force. They were in reply to letters received from him. He had asked me if I could get a letter of recommendation to the Police Commissioners to get a friend of his on the police force. He did not say who the friend was, nor did he mention the name of Bruner. I destroyed the letters."

Bledsoe asked Bellau "why Jones had supposed he had influence in the Legislature?"

The answer was: "I suppose it was because I had been very active in the campaign toward electing the Republican ticket. He thought probably I had influence with members of the Legislature. I answered his letters and said I would see what I could do for him. In reply to this Jones wrote he would be up with his friend who desired the letter to the Police Commissioners. He said there was money in it. About two weeks ago to-day I met Mr. Bruner in San Francisco and asked him if he would give me a letter to the Police Commissioners to get a friend on the police force. This was at the Grand Hotel."

He said: "I don't know that I have any influence with the Commissioners; I have never spoken to any of them; I have no time to write a letter now. Later, I spoke to Bruner again and asked him if he had considered my proposition. He said he had been spoken to by the Examiner's reporter, who asked him if he had positions on the police force for sale. I will see you to-morrow, I am not ready to consider your favor now. I saw him in the Capitol last Tuesday night, before this I met Dan Jones and Mr. Stowell. Jones said this was the man who wanted the position. We all met Bruner in the hallway. Jones said there was $400 in it. I said I wanted my fee, $150. He said all right. I then asked Mr. Bruner if he would write this letter for the gentleman in the library. He said all right. I told him there was $400 in it, and I said I wanted $150. He again said all right. Bruner then wrote the letter. Stowell then endorsed the check and gave it to me; Bruner then folded the letter and addressed it to the police commissioners; Stowell put the letter in his pocket. I gave Bruner the check; he gave me $70, and asked me to wait a moment. He went back into the library and returned and gave me $80 more. I then gave Jones $50."

McCall wanted to know of Bellau if he had not kept company with Jones nearly all the time in Sacramento. He said he had been with him considerably.

McCall—"Did you think that letter would secure a position on force?"
Bellau—"I did not think anything of the kind. It was understood that I was to get a letter and was to receive the money for it. In the telegram, I think I told Jones to bring the stuff or the dough, or I don't remember which word I used."

Galbraith asked Bellau if he had gone to Hayes or Coffee Assemblymen with some proposition. He said he had not.

Galbraith—"If the man did not get the position, would you feel like returning the $150.00?"
Bellau—"I don't think I would."
Committee adjourned until evening.

Train Robbers Caught.

BROWNVILLE (Texas), March 9.—The whole particulars of the plot which resulted in the robbery of the train on the Rio Grande January 29th, and the loss of $25,000, have come to light. The instigator, Juan Benites, a rich rancher and merchant at El Sauz ranch, in jail here, has confessed. The Chief of Police ran down the ranch blacksmith and carpenter who made the crowfoot, with which they used to ditch the train, and through their confession secured Benites and several other members of the gang. The leader of the party is a well known smuggler named Simon Garcia. The night after the robbery he stole three horses and left for Mexico. He is being pursued by Mexican cavalry. A portion of the stolen money was recovered and all the robbers will probably be captured. They are all ranchers living in this country. One of the gang got $4,000, while the rest only got $1,500 each. There was a disagreement, and one of the bandits named Angel Cortines, was shot and killed by the leader.

Fool Legislation.

The San Francisco Argonaut, in discussing the acts of the present Legislature of California, comments as follows, which is so applicable to our own State that it is reproduced:

"It was the constant introduction and the occasional passage of fool bills which led to biennial, instead of annual, sessions of Legislatures in the Western States and to the restriction of sessions to sixty days. The intention was to diminish the opportunity of legislators to make themselves ridiculous and occasionally mischievous. It looks as though the reform had not been thorough enough, and that a session of thirty days, once in four years, might accomplish all that the interests of the State require. Looking back over the last five Legislatures of this State, what useful act stands to the credit of any of them? The Legislature of 1888 was devoted to the sensible task of trying to break down the transportation system of the State; it did, in effect, retard the development of railroads and set back the State several years. The Legislature of 1889 took precisely the opposite task, and chose the president of the chief railroad of the State to be United States Senator. The Legislature of 1887 dashed out what little brains it had on the fock of pure wine; its corpse was stranded on a shore strewn with ineffectual irrigation bills. It took all the time of the Legislature of 1889 to repair the blunders of its predecessor, and to frame a measure under which irrigation companies could float their bonds. What the Legislature of 1891 has accomplished is before the public. Its record would be ludicrous if it were not contemptible.

"It is too late, in the present day of grace, to question the capacity of intelligent people to make the laws under which they live. However small or large the capacity may be, there is no one else to whom the law-making power can be intrusted. But certain it is, that whenever a balance is struck between the good and bad bills which are passed by the Legislature of this State, it is a nice question which predominates, and whether the State would not be better off if there were no bills passed at all. What Buckle says of British acts in Parliament is pre-eminently true of the acts of the Legislature of California: The best acts are those which simply repeal former acts.

"Mankind are so ingenious that they can adjust themselves to almost any system of laws, however illogical or oppressive. Men manage to steal a good deal of liberty under despotisms, and trade occasionally flourishes under the protective system. But each new blunder in legislation imposes on its victims the duty of casting about to discover a way of avoiding its effects, and thus a good deal of force is wasted. It would, probably, be often as well to put up with a bad law rather than try to amend it. California would, probably, thrive as well if no Legislature met for the next ten years as it can do with biennial Legislatures, which seem incapable of producing any progeny but fool laws."

The boulders are getting in their work in the California Legislature, and Assemblyman Bruner is reaping the reward. The charges made against him by the Examiner that he sold a place on the police force of San Francisco for four hundred dollars will require additional proof in the face of the counter charges and denials on the part of Mr. Bruner. That boulder in one way and another is a dangerous element in politics is a generally conceded fact, and our legislators are not free from its demoralizing influence. There have been members in the Nevada Legislature in years gone by who could profit by Mr. Bruner's experience if they had brains enough. A man who loves money well enough to prostitute his manhood and independence of character for a few dollars is not a safe man to trust in any of the walks of life, and more especially to make laws for a commonwealth.

THERE has been a bill introduced in the Assembly appropriating ten thousand dollars to repair the State Insane Asylum. The Senate is talking of five thousand, and inasmuch as it is a matter of State economy to repair it now, the Senate should take steps to ascertain just what is needed, if they are not satisfied with the report of the committee appointed to investigate the subject, and appropriate enough to do the work as it should be done. That the building is in a very dilapidated condition now, only requires a visit to the institution to prove.

CONSTANTINOPLE'S LEPEERS.

Miss Kate Marsden, the English woman who is studying the manifestations of leprosy with the intention of devoting her life to the care of those afflicted with the disease, has reached Constantinople. In writing home, she says the Chicago Post, she says she had an idea that in this city of unused palaces one or the other of them might have been turned into a bright hospital for the lepers, where, tended by kind, well-trained nurses, they might find such mitigation of their sufferings as skill and gentleness could bestow; but one after the other of these palaces were left behind and she knew that idea must be given up. Away through the crowded streets they drove and made no halt until they reached a large open space outside the city; but if she expected to find the lepers stowed away here she was mistaken. The guide took a boat, and after a long row they landed on a cold, dreary-looking spot; here again they took carriage and drove toward a place which in the distance looked like a forest of cypress trees, and yet no. The white stones just distinguishable made her think it must be inhabited; but, as the carriage drew nearer, she saw that they were not houses, as she imagined, but hundreds and thousands of graves, packed as closely as it was possible to be, even in Turkey, with the tall, dark, gloomy cypress trees planted every few yards apart. She asked the guide why the cypress trees were planted there so thickly; his answer was, "Because, madam, it helps to kill the stench from the graves."

She drove a long way into the forest of the dead and the cypress until all view of the sea was gone and she found herself shut in. Yet she was not alone, for here in the very midst dwell the poor, outcast lepers, driven here by the Government. The guide was simply horrified when he discovered Miss Kate Marsden's intention of going in among them all; he absolutely refused to go a step nearer.

As she stood within the leper house she was dumb with astonishment that any nation, however barbarous, could in the face of civilization subject any portion of its people to such a miserable condition. No sun sheds its healthful rays there, and the chill which struck her as she remained within the house gave her an idea of what the lepers must suffer. She said she did so long to tell them how she sympathized with them and how gladly she would take their burden from them; how she hoped and prayed in her heart that nowhere in the world were the poor lepers treated as here in the paradise among cities, Constantinople.

There is a ray of light here, however, and that is the good doctor, who is doing every thing in his power to induce the Sultan to provide properly for them, and he is devoted to their cause; but in such a country and with such people he is almost powerless. His name is Pascha Zambaco; he is a very kind man, and the misery of the lepers weighs heavily upon him.

The wind came howling through the gloomy trees, and blew in sharp blasts through the door, and some of the poor lepers standing outside leaning upon the gates shuddered and drew closer round their miserable bodies; the rags which helped to cover them, but which were quite unfit to keep out the cold even from people in health, much less from those suffering from such a disease as leprosy. Miss Marsden says that what she saw is really too awful to describe, but it has taught her the necessity of seeing for herself the condition of the lepers, if she is to be of the slightest use to them in the future. As she left them they sang "The Lepers' Song"—such a dismal wail! but which was truly in keeping with their condition. It made her shiver; indeed, her whole being quivered with agony at the sight of such awful depths of misery.

Mrs. Edison's Domestic Life.

Mrs. Edison, wife of the inventor, is quite a fine musician, and she and her step-children constantly practice together. Her home life is a very simple and quiet one. Mrs. Edison has her housekeeping—to which she gives her personal supervision—her music and her social duties, as well as her intercourse with her husband and children, to occupy her time. Her connection with her husband's work is shown by the close manner in which she follows his inventions, step by step, and in the interest with which she appreciates their discovery, improvements and completion. In appearance she is very youthful and charming. Her complexion is olive, her mouth firm, teeth good and eyes a shade darker than the hair, which is brown, abundant and wavy, and is worn parted over her forehead in a peculiarly becoming way. She dresses handsomely and well, and looks what she is—the simple, quiet wife of a great and successful man.

A Mammoth Wheel.

What is believed to be the largest wheel in the world was recently made at the Scranton (Pa.) works of the Dickson Manufacturing Company for the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company of Michigan. It is a cog-wheel, 54 feet in diameter, with an 18-inch face, and is built in the exact form of a bicycle, with its extensions and spokes. The capacity of the wheel, at a velocity of 10 feet a second at the inner edge of the buckets, is 90,000,000 gallons of water and 2,000 tons of sand in twenty-four hours. Its weight is 400,000 pounds. The journals are 38 inches in diameter and 3 feet 4 inches long. The total length of the shaft is 23 feet 6 inches.

JOTTINGS.

It would take more nerve than money to get in the swim at the North Pole. Hot lunch and a big schooner of beer for only 15 cents, at Jake Becker's.

Alas! Already—"George dear, will you love me when I'm old?" "What a silly question, Penelope. Of course I do." Fashionable note paper and visiting cards at C. A. Thurston's.

Mrs. Dogood—Did you see the elephant while you were in New York? Mrs. Tiger—I didn't, but my husband did. At least when we got home he said one had stepped on his pocketbook. Board at the Arcade, it is open day and night.

Young Housekeeper (to butcher) You may send me up that bag of ham, and—er—how is your liver this morning? Butcher—Fast rate, Mum. I been takin' Sarsaparilla Wicky for a month. Better board at the Riverside hotel and avoid such blunders.

Its Excellent Qualities.

Commend to public approval the California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs. It is pleasant to the eye, and to the taste, and by gentle action on the kidneys, liver and bowels. It cleanses the system effectually, and thereby promotes the health and comfort of all who use it.

Believed of Kidney Trouble.

S. J. Cronin, Rosini House, Toronto, Canada, writes: "I have been troubled with a backache for some time past, and great difficulty in passing urine. Three weeks ago I applied an Alcock's Porous Plaster, and have done so every five days since. Almost immediately I had partial relief, and now I am entirely free from pain—water passing freely and perfectly clear, without burning. I owe my great relief to Alcock's Porous Plasters and heartily recommend them in any case of kidney trouble."

Is Disease a Punishment for Sin? The following advertisement, published for a prominent western patent medicine house would indicate that they regard disease as a punishment for sin:

"Do you wish to know the quickest way to cure a severe cold? We will tell you. To cure a cold quickly, it must be treated before the cold has become settled in the system. This can always be done if you choose to, as nature in her kindness to man gives timely warning and plainly tells in nature's way, that as a punishment for some indiscretion, you are to be afflicted with a cold unless you choose to ward it off by prompt action. The first symptoms of a cold, in most cases, is a dry, loud cough and sneezing. The cough is soon followed by a profuse watery expectoration and the sneezing by a profuse watery discharge from the nose. In severe cases there is a thin white coating on the tongue. What to do? It is only necessary to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in double doses every hour. That will greatly lessen the severity of the cold and in most cases will effectually counteract it, and cure what would have been a severe cold within one or two days. Try it and be convinced." 50 cent bottles for sale by J. B. McCullough, druggist.

Happy Druggists.

Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaho, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from Kidney and Liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best liver and kidney medicine, make me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle at Wm. Finlinger's drug store."

Quick Work.

From the Des Moines Mail and Times. A few days ago while sitting in Elder Bros' drug store at Tingley, Iowa, Mr. T. L. Dyer, a well known citizen, came in and asked for something to cure a severe cold which he had. Mr. Elder took down a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and said: "Here is something I can recommend. It commands a large sale and gives genuine satisfaction. It is an excellent preparation and cheap." Mr. Dyer purchased a bottle, and the next day when we saw him he said he was much better, and the day following appeared to be entirely restored. This is a specimen of the effectiveness of this preparation. For sale by J. B. McCullough, druggist.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. She then had a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and by its use she directly herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was—free from all traces of that Great Discovery at W. Finlinger's Drug Store, large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

A sure Cure for Piles.

Itching Piles are known by moisture, like perspiration causing intense itching when warm. This form, as well as blind, bleeding and protruding, yield at once to Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy. It acts directly on the parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. Druggists or mail order treatise free. Dr. Bosanko, Chicago, Ill. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson.

A PROSPECTOR'S FIND.

A search for Silver That Ended in Philosophy—From My Diary of 27 Years Ago.

During the spring of 1864 I was engaged one day in prospecting the sunny slope of a canyon in which I was camped. It was on the west slope of the Toiyabe range, overlooking Reese River Valley, opposite the Washington Buttes, but at an elevation of perhaps 8,000 feet above sea level, I had been trudging all the forenoon, climbing higher and higher up the mountain side, breaking here and there a bit of float-rock with the pickaxe I carried, and watching for any indication of the ledge it came from. The hillside was covered with soil to some depth and supported a little scattered forest of nut pine, with a few cedars, the needles from which had helped to form the soil, and made it the more difficult to find the blind ledge I was searching for. I was much interested, but when the sun reached the zenith I felt hungry enough to rest and eat the light lunch I carried wrapped in paper in my overshirt pocket. It was only a little sandwich of bread with a slice of well fried bacon, and with a drink of water from my canteen, I proceeded to eat it, while seated on a bed of needles and a pine. Looking across the gulch I discovered a coyote, a sneaking apology of defiance, with his teeth exposed in a grinning look of wolfish hunger, approaching, halting and retreating by turns, until becoming bolder he sat down within a stone's throw, and exposing his wolfish fangs, watched me as though preparing for a feast. I will confess that it was the first one I had ever seen, and knowing nothing of its ways, I was perhaps a little alarmed. So I rose up and swinging my pick-axe around my head, gave a yell and started it away. I soon noted its disappearance, but could not tell where it went to. It simply seemed to vanish with its grey coat in the dead brush of the hillside, as though it had been absorbed. I sat down for a further rest, and while watching the ground at my feet, I noticed crawling from a hole what I supposed to be a beetle. It moved slowly and appeared to be just awakening from its winter hibernation. It moved toward a fallen twig and began to climb upon it. It soon reached what seemed a suitable place, and settling down and doubling its legs around it, seemed to exert itself in hugging closely to its resting place. I had hardly time to note its action, when its horny shell burst open and from it slowly fluttered down the hillside a winged moth or fly, which soon disappeared from my view as mysteriously as did the coyote a few minutes before. A little before, I looked down at the twig, and, clinging to it, was the shell of a hollow mockery of the life that was in it but a moment before. It called up at once in my mind thoughts of the flight of the human soul, which sent me to camp in a meditative mood and made me unusually silent. My partner noticed my manner and inquired kindly to know what was the matter; and when related, with some seriousness, the cause of my quiet reflection, he looked up with a twinkle in his grey eyes and said, "What did you have in the canteen?" BASCOM.

NAUMAN—DEALY.

A Quiet Wedding at the Episcopal Church.

The Fresno Expositor says: Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock there was performed in the presence of a few invited friends at St. James' Church, by Rev. D. O. Kelly, a quiet but impressive marriage ceremony. The principals to the holy contract were Mr. Joseph Nauman of San Francisco and Miss Edith Dealy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Dealy of this city.

Directly after the ceremony the newly wedded couple were driven to the residence of the bride's parents on Kern street, where they received the congratulations of friends, after which an elegant wedding breakfast was served to the guests, among whom were Mrs. H. H. Welsh, Miss Nauman, Mr. George C. Graham of San Francisco, Miss Cora Winchell, Miss Sadie Dealy and Mr. and Mrs. Led F. Winchell.

After the repast Mr. and Mrs. Nauman were driven away amid a shower of rice and old shoes to the north-bound train that was to carry them to their new home in San Francisco, though it is their intention to visit San Jose, Monterey and Santa Cruz before settling down in the every day routine of married life.

They take with them the best wishes of their many friends in Fresno.

ACCIDENT AT WADSWORTH.

Which Occurred in a Funeral Procession, but Luckily Was Free From Fatalities.

A serious accident occurred at Wadsworth on Friday last during the return of the procession from the cemetery after the burial of Mrs. Driscoll. The coupling of a spring wagon gave way, letting the bed fall, and spilling the occupants out with some violence on the ground, but without any serious injury. The horses, however, free from control and scared, dashed ahead with the front wheels, and made a wild attempt to pass, one on either side, a light road cart just ahead of them. The cart was upset and in the wild plunging of the horses, the occupants were severely hurt. One of them, Mrs. Abbey received some severe bruises, and her companion, Mrs. Folkes was also bruised, but not so badly. The occupants of the wagon were Miss O'Farrell and Miss McNevin, who escaped with only slight bruises.

DESERTS DISAPPEAR.

The Conditions in Utah are Similar to Philosophy—From My Diary of 27 Years Ago.

A writer in the Salt Lake Tribune says the Great American Desert seems to have become a vagabond upon the face of the earth. It once lay immediately east of the Rocky Mountains, but that country is now waving in grass and grain. It now has no claim upon Utah for that country is producing the finest potatoes known in the world; and here fruit and vegetables, her fine climate and fine scenery, cool summers and mild winters make up such a combination as is difficult to excel. The arable lands in the "Rockies" are mainly in the valleys, which, like basins, have gathered the debris of the mountains for ages. Hence the soil is DEEP AND RICH and yields much more than the same area in the east. Moreover, the agricultural resources of a country do not determine its wealth-producing power or its possible population. A single rich mine represents a vast area of arable land. The Gomstock lode in 1887 produced $37,061,292. This is more wealth than that year was produced by all the corn fields of New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan combined. Rocky Mountain wealth is pouring into the earth, and thereby compensates for vast areas of barren surface. These granite safes where the silver and gold have been locked up for ages to enrich this generation, are fastened with time locks, set for the advent of the railways that are now forming a network to the Pacific coast.

IRRIGATION.

What It Has Accomplished in Ancient Days and What It Is Doing Now.

Since time immemorial, says the Fresno Republican, irrigated countries have attained the highest civilization. Going back four thousand years, we find Egypt the religious and commercial center of the world. The water of the Nile distributed over the surrounding country was the prime factor of this condition. The Arabians and inhabitants of the valley of the Euphrates owe their old-time prestige to the same cause; and even in our own continent, where naught can be seen now but a rolling desert, the outlines of gigantic canals, crumbling and disfigured with age, speak emphatically of the source of the Aztec civilization.

Coming down to the present day the most thickly populated districts of Europe are those which depend on irrigation. Lombardy, as densely populated a spot as is in Europe, owes it all to water. The south of France, and a large portion of Spain, but for their irrigation canals would be uninhabitable wastes. India sustains a population of 200,000,000 by means of a stupendous irrigation system, and so it all over the world.

The irrigation system of Fresno county has cost more than $2,000,000. On it is dependent every acre of land in the county for value. It has, therefore, developed values to the extent of $27,000,000, the assessed valuation of the real property. Irrigation is the fountain-head of our prosperity.

FINISHED WORK.

Death's Delays in the Fifty-first Congress.

Death caused thirteen vacancies in the Congress which has just adjourned. The list is as follows:

James N. Barnes, Missouri, January 24, 1889.
E. W. Townsend, Illinois, March 9, 1889.
Edward J. Gay, Louisiana, May 30, 1889.
James Laird, Nebraska, August 17, 1889.

S. S. Cox, New York, September 10, 1889.
William D. Kelley, Pennsylvania, February 24, 1890.

David Wilber, New York, April 1, 1890.
Samuel J. Randall, Pennsylvania, April 13, 1890.

James P. Walker, Missouri, July 19, 1890.
F. Watson, Pennsylvania, August 25, 1890.

James Phelan, Tennessee, January 30, 1891.
Ephraim King Wilson, Maryland, February 24, 1891.

George Hearst, California, February 28, 1891.

This is the largest death roll of any Congress since the organization of the Government. The degree of mortality is magnified in a moment when the names of Cox, Kelly and Randall—the three most experienced and prominent members of the House—are recalled.

In Quicksand for Four Years.

A locomotive engineer says: I read with interest some time ago an account of the quicksands of Colorado. We once had an experience on the old Kansas Pacific that taught us what they were. An engine ran off a low bridge near River Bend, about 100 miles east of Denver, and fell into a small creek filled with quicksands. A wrecking train came in a few hours, but the engine had entirely disappeared. The railroad officials ordered it to be raised, but it could not be found. We sounded with rods to a depth of over sixty feet, but not a trace did we discover of the engine, which had vanished as completely as if it had never existed. Four years afterward it was found at the depth of 100 feet and raised. We then ascertained that there was scarcely a bit of rust on it, and breaks were few, and after a little tinkering it was put into a road again. The sand had kept out the air and prevented the iron from oxidizing.

Iryo Items.

Down at Independence, Iryo county, a heavy rain fell up till Sunday evening last, and the Independent says: When the rain ceased, warm, bright, weather set in, and grass is making rapid growth. During the recent storm an immense amount of snow fell upon the Sierras, and now it can be seen from the valley that the canyons are all filled to a great depth.

Alfalfa hay in stack and of the best quality is offered at 13 per ton at different points in the Owens River Valley.

Local and General Intelligence.

The weather is soft and mild. The Washington Legislature has appropriated $100,000 for its exhibit at the World's Fair.

Dr. Greenlaw has recently moved into the L. L. Crockett house, and may be found there when not at his office.

There are 7,671 locomotive engineers employed on the Pennsylvania system, and their average pay is $112 a month.

The Homer Index is informed by a mining friend, and London, that a new company is being formed there to operate at Aurora, Nevada.

There have been three deaths in Marysville from pneumonia in twenty-four hours. Herman Berg, a wealthy merchant, was the last victim.

Train robber (in background)—"Don't be alarmed, ladies and gentlemen, we don't want nothin' of you; it's the porter we're holding up!"

The press and pulpit have made such persistent assaults upon progressive euclyps at Richmond, Ind., that progressive pedro is taking its place.

The Pullman Palace Car Company now operates 2,050 sleeping and drawing-room cars over 126,037 miles of railroad in this country. The company has about $20,000,000 invested in cars.

A goodly number of Nevada's legislators visit Reno every Saturday and stay here until Monday morning. They find this a good place to say their prayers and get a Sunday dinner at our metropolitan hotels.

Edwin Tonkin, agent of the Northern Pacific railroad at Seattle, has been arrested for embezzlement. The company will endeavor to force the gambling houses in which the money was lost—about $5,000—to return it.

The Pioche people are having a tough time of it. Word comes that 90 per cent. of the inhabitants are down with la grippe and pneumonia. Six deaths have occurred; other patients are dying. Dr. Louder is dead and Dr. Nesbitt is very sick, so there is no medical attendance for the sick, and the town is in a very bad way.

Maud Liephey—"A king once married a beggar." Jack Ward—"Yes, dear; but that was in the good old days when kings could afford to do such things. They now have to marry for money, like other people."

Nelson keeps the only La Marseillaise cigar. It is the finest quality of Key West brand. Try La Marseillaise.

Excited lady (at Atlantic City)—"Why isn't something done for that ship in distress? Why don't some of you— Life saver (hurriedly)—"We have sent her crew a line to come ashore, mum." Excited lady—"Of all things! Were they waiting for a formal invitation?" Walk in without knocking at Sunderlands.

SHE WAS A TRUMP.

But in Getting Married She Broke a Full Hand.

Married, February 11th, at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Minnie Belle Baker to Truman Higbie, all of Santa Ana. Minnie is our oldest daughter, and was a trump in every sense of a joker in our business.

She is a good girl, and her marriage breaks a full hand, leaving only two pairs in the family—two boys and two girls. For years past she has been our local editor, and apologized for us with systematic precision when we were not in, and always furnished copy for the printers when the demand was made for more copy. She was honest, faithful, conscientious and reliable, with all her faults, which is to be attributed to her papa. The rest of her virtues should be credited to her mamma. Higbie is a fine fellow, and well spoken of by everybody. We bank on him as a square man, and wish him all the good fortune and luck that married life can bring. Children, here's our blessing: "Milk-taken souls, you dream of heaven, etc."

Mrs. Whitcomb's Big Pension.

Colonel Clements in Chicago yesterday paid out the largest individual pension ever granted to a pensioner in the division. Mrs. Laura B. Whitcomb, widow of Colonel Samuel B. Whitcomb of the Seventh Illinois Volunteers, was the lucky person. The sum she received was $9,326 40. She is entitled to $30 per month from Uncle Sam's treasury. With one exception it was the largest amount ever paid to one individual from the Chicago office. The exception was Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, who received $15,000. This, however, was by special Act of Congress, and not under the Pension law.

A Mystery.

How the human system ever recovers from the bad effects of the nausea medicines often poured into it from the suppositional relief of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism and other ailments, is a mystery. The mischief done by bad medicines is scarcely less than that caused by disease. If the patient is weak, dyspeptic, constipated or rheumatic would often be guided by the experience of invalids who have been thoroughly tested by the Stomach Bitters, they would in every instance obtain the speediest and derivable from rational medication. This medicine is a searching and at the same time a thoroughly safe remedy, derived from vegetable sources, and possessing, in consequence of its basis of pure spirits, properties as a medicinal stimulant not to be found in the very local bitters and stimulants often resorted to by the debilitated, dyspeptic and languid.

overeating, or the partaking of too rich and indigestible food, is a common cause of discomfort and suffering. To immediately relieve the stomach and bowels from such overloading, a full dose of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets is the best remedy. They operate gently, yet thoroughly and without griping, nausea, or other unpleasant effects.

If the too free indulgence in such temperate eating has deranged digestion, causing dyspepsia and biliousness, attended with a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in mouth in the morning, or arising, drowsiness after meals, indigestible feeling of food, or of impending calamity and hypochondria—then you need to follow up the use of the "Pellets" with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, to tone up the stomach, invigorate the liver and set all the processes of digestion at work. While curing indigestion, it purifies the blood, clearing the system from all humors and blood-poisons—no matter of what name or nature, or from what cause arising. There is nothing so effective in its composition or approaching it in its results. Therefore, don't be duped and induced to take some substitute, said to be "just as good," that the dealer may make a larger profit.

Each of the big pie factories of Chicago possesses a barometer, which records the upward and downward tendencies of grim poverty with a nicety that leaves the professional gatherer of statistics away in the rear. Take the statement of the sales of these factories and you have the best and most perfect register of the prosperity of Chicago that is available.

In the summer months, when the working-man has plenty of employment, the figures run high. As the dull season approaches these same figures grow less and less, marking a perfect gradation until hardpan is reached, when they begin to mount once more. Compare the figures of one year with another and you get the complete statistics of the subject. This suggestion is thrown out gratuitously to the students of economic questions.

Just now things are in a bad way for the poor man. Business is dull and the labor market is overworked. The bake-shops and confectionery stores feel the pressure more perhaps than any other class of business. Not alone is it noticeable in decreased sales, but also in the increasing number of applicants for charity.

Any evening between six and seven o'clock may be noticed a crowd of twenty or thirty poorly dressed women and children with their baskets in their hands standing at the back door of a downtown bakery. They are waiting for the evening distribution of broken victuals. Most of them are foreigners, with here and there a person who looks as if she had known better days. Not all of them are recipients of charity. Some bring money with them and insist on paying for what they get. These make up the self-respecting element who are making a hard struggle to rise out of the slough of poverty.

A little group of swart Italians stands a short distance from the others. They are waiting to buy stale bread. They are particular in what they eat, it is said. Not every kind of stale bread will suit them. Rye bread they abhor and are partial to Vienna bread and the fancy kinds.

Certain boarding-house keepers come here to buy cake of an ancient make, which they make fresh again by a peculiar process known only to the initiated. The tramp occasionally mingles with the crowd, but his society is tabooed and the dispenser of charity coldly warns him off the premises.

At a Washington street bakery charity begins to distribute her favors about the time the business man has got through with his lunch. Three generations can occasionally be found here. There is the wrinkled grandmother who first saw the light somewhere in Sicily. Her age is uncertain, but it is near seventy. Her daughter and her granddaughter complete the trio. The proprietor estimates that nearly fifty persons are fed each day from the provisions received in this way. Stale bread is also sold here at from one cent to one and a half cent a loaf. The rule in this place is to help every one who looks decent and who doesn't smell of whisky.

On the West side at the big bakeries no aid is given to individuals. What there is to be given away is bestowed entirely on charitable institutions. One firm sends out in this way about fifteen barrels of biscuits a month, making about seven hundred and fifty pounds.

A favorite method of many persons with limited incomes is to purchase broken biscuits and "cripples." Cripples are biscuits twisted out of shape by the heat while in the oven. Nearly twenty barrels of "cripples" are sold every day.

It is said to be not uncommon for wealthy people to drive up carriages and purchase broken biscuits. Now and then they are curty told that none can be had; but they are persistent, and return again and again, so eager are they to save on their table expenses.

The Prince of Wales' Dogs. Among the Prince of Wales' many virtues is that he is a "lover of a dog." Indeed, the kennels are one of the principal show places at Sandringham. His favorite sporting dogs, it seems, are two wavy retrievers, Bruce IV. and Bell V. But the Prince fancies every kind of breed, and is the recipient, of course, of a great many presents, among which are Bosco, a Samoyede sledge dog, presented by Captain Wiggins; and Blizoff, a Norwegian dog, blue, with gray markings, a most peculiar and quaint-looking creature.

PROSPERITY AND PIE.

Statistics Which Tell Unerringly the Actual Condition of the Masses—How the Big Bakers Dispose Charitably to Hungry Crowds.

Poverty and pie apparently have little in common. The hungry man who draws in his belt another notch as meal-time passes is not likely to spend his last nickel in the luxury of a triangular cut of juicy apple pie. Even that monarch of pies, the fascinating but unwholesome mince pie, sends up its alluring odor in vain; the man with the aching cold passes by on the other side and spends his nickel for doughnuts or a ham sandwich with mustard on it.

The connection between poverty and pie, says the Chicago News, is not a subtle, indefinable abstraction which requires a metaphysical mind to unravel. It is as plain as a twice-told tale and a good deal more interesting.

When the sale of pies runs below zero, hard, pinching poverty is abroad in the land and waits the best seat at the poor man's table. As times grow better more pies are sold and wait sneaks out into the alley. In some countries the infallible test of a poor man's prosperity comes with his ability to eat butter with his bread. In the United States pie is the sovereign test. The man who can't afford to eat pie with his lunch is poor indeed.

Each of the big pie factories of Chicago possesses a barometer, which records the upward and downward tendencies of grim poverty with a nicety that leaves the professional gatherer of statistics away in the rear. Take the statement of the sales of these factories and you have the best and most perfect register of the prosperity of Chicago that is available.

ANCIENT BUDDHIST STATUE.

Some Carvings Found in India by Children at Play.

The Pioneer of Allahabad reports an archaeological discovery of some importance at Maheswar, in the Kungpore district. Some children while playing among ruins there unearthed two beautiful groups of statuary, cut from the hard, black basaltic stone found near Gaya.

Both represent mythological deities, with features of Greco-Buddhist type. The first is two feet in length by twenty inches in breadth, with a depth of six inches. It represents Vishnu or Pasudo, the emblem of the preserving power in nature.

The central figure stands on a lotus and its four hands grasp a club, wheel, lotus and conch. On the head is a tiara three inches in height, which, with the ear-rings, necklace, bracelets, wrist-chain and sacred thread, are rendered with a wonderful degree of delicacy and finish.

To the right and left stand figures of Lakshmi, the goddess of wealth, and Sarasvati, who patronizes learning, each ten inches in height. Round the central group are seven minor deities, armed with bows and arrows and riding on horses and elephants. The entablature is surmounted by a head of the Alavara, known as Nrisingha. On the base is an inscription said to be in the Landra character, a mixed form of Devanagiri and Tibetan.

The second piece of carving is smaller, and the workmanship, though good, is not equal to that of the other group. It is sixteen inches high, twenty inches broad and six inches deep, and represents a Paurnika goddess. The figure is seated on a lotus and is four-armed. The lower left hand supports a male infant, the corresponding right hand holds a sweetmeat and the two other grasp branches of trees. This group also has an inscription in Landra, which, however, has defied elucidation. Both pieces of sculpture are in excellent preservation, the tracery being as clear cut as if it had just left the artist's hand. History and tradition are alike silent as to the origin of these curious relics, and it will probably remain a puzzle how an inscription in bastard Tibetan should be discovered so unlikewise a spot.

The keenest excitement was caused by the discovery among the Hindu population. Apart from the intrinsic value of the carvings, which is considerable, they are objects of worship. During their temporary sojourn at the local police station they were visited by crowds and smothered with sweet oils and flowers. Various claimants came forward, and to avoid litigation the district made them over to the local Hindu religious association. They have been built into the wall at one end of its hall, where they were inspected with interest by Stuart Bayley during his recent visit to Rungpore.

AN ENGINE ON A GOLD PIECE.

Smallest Force Generators on Record—A Three-Drop Boiler.

The smallest engine we have any record of is that made by D. A. Buck, of Waterbury, Conn. The engine, boiler, governor and pumps all stand on a space 7-16 of an inch square and are about 1/4 of an inch high. The engine has 143 distinct parts, held together by 53 screws. Three drops of water fills the boiler to overflowing. The diameter of the cylinder is 1/32 of an inch, the length 3/32 of an inch. The whole engine weighs but 3 grains, not including base-plate.

Levi Taylor, an ingenious mechanic of Indianapolis, Ia., has constructed an engine almost equal to the Waterbury wonder. This pygmy was on exhibition at the Centennial at Philadelphia in 1876. It is built on a twenty-five cent gold piece, the whole outfit weighing but a fraction over three grains.

It must have been quite a contrast to the enormous Corliss engine when on exhibition in the same building. Taylor's engine, while not as small as that made by the Waterbury mechanic, is a wonder that will be better appreciated when the reader is informed that it would take 144 such engines to weigh one ounce avoirdupois.
